

The Transformative Justice in Education (TJE) Center & the Graduate Group in Education present

“We Are All Prisoners”: Youth, Education, & Justice

Hosted by TJE Practitioner in Residence Roger Viet Chung

Subini
Annamma, PhD

Assistant Professor,
The University of Kansas

Dr. Annamma’s research and pedagogy focus on increasing access to equitable education for historically marginalized students and communities. Her current work focuses on the experiences of young women of color with disabilities—linking how the intersections of race, gender, and disability are under surveillance and susceptible to punishment in public schools and juvenile incarceration.

Damien M.
Sojoyner, PhD

Assistant Professor,
UC Irvine

Damien M. Sojoyner is “an urban anthropologist with a diasporic framework.” He teaches undergraduate courses in Urban Ethnography in the United States and Prisons and Public Education; he teaches graduate courses in Black Ethnography in the Anthropological Imagination, Prisons in the United States, and Black Political Theory.

Sabina
Vaught, PhD

Associate Professor,
Tufts University

Dr. Vaught’s scholarship and teaching are concerned with the production, disruption, and exchange of knowledge across powered, institutional terrains. She is Director of Educational Studies and holds affiliations in Africana; American; Cultural; and Women’s, Gender, and Sexuality Studies at Tufts.

education.ucdavis.edu/we-are-all-prisoners

Refreshments will be served.

THURSDAY
April
26
12 - 1:30 p.m.
Room 174
School of Education Building
No Fee to Attend
Registration is Required